

Contributors / Collaborateurs

Hilary CHANCE is an educational consultant and research assistant at the Multicultural History Society of Ontario. Her contribution to this volume explores the Multicultural History Society of Ontario and was done in cooperation with Lillian Petroff.

Peter GELLER, Ph.D., teaches at InterUniversities North and Keewatin Community College and is a member of the University College of the North Implementation Team. He teaches Aboriginal Studies and Northern History courses, with emphasis on oral traditions and oral history. His book, Northern Exposures, to be published in 2004 by UBC Press, explores film and photography representations of northern Canada.

Kristina LLEWELLYN currently teaches in the Women's Studies Programme and is a Ph.D. candidate in Educational Studies at the University of British Columbia. She received her M.A. from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto after completing a B.Ed. and B.A. at Queen's. Her research interests lie in the areas of oral history, women teachers, and gendered concepts of educational democracy.

James MORRISON, Ph.D., is a Professor of History at St. Mary's University, Halifax, Nova Scotia. He teaches in the fields of global history, Asian studies and oral history. He is widely published. One of the earliest members of the Canadian Oral History Association, Dr. Morrison served as Editor of Forum and continues to serve as Book Review Editor.

Ryan O'CONNOR is currently pursuing his M.A. in Canadian history at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario. A graduate of the University of Prince Edward Island, he is in the process of completing a thesis on the National Farmers Union's demonstrations in 1971 in P.E.I.

Lillian PETROFF, Ph.D., is coordinator of the Multicultural History Society's Education and Community Outreach services. She is the author of Sojourners and Settlers: The Macedonian Community in Toronto to 1940 published by the University of Toronto Press in 1996.

Aniko VARPALOTAI, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Education, University of Western Ontario. Her Ph.D. was granted by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto. She teaches in the areas of education policies, research methods and health education; her research interests include gender equity in education and rural education.