

Contributors/Collaborateurs

Angela CAVENDER WILSON, Ph.D.

(Wahpetunwan Dakota) is from the Upper Sioux Reservation, Minnesota. This past summer she completed her dissertation, De Kiksuyapo! (Remember This!): The Eli Taylor Narratives and Dakota Conceptions of History, and received her PhD in American history at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York. Angela is now an Assistant Professor in the History Department at Arizona State University.

Rob INNES

A member of the Cowessess First Nation, Rob just completed his MA thesis entitled The Social-Political Influence of the Second World War Saskatchewan Aboriginal Veterans, 1945-1960 in Native Studies at the University of Saskatchewan where he is teaching as a sessional lecturer.

Neal MCLEOD

(Cree/Swedish) from the James Smith First Nation is a doctoral student at the Canadian Plains Research Centre, University of Regina, and an Assistant Professor of Indian Studies at the Saskatchewan Indian Federated College, Regina campus.

Robert NESTOR

Rob is a doctoral student at the Canadian Plains Research Centre, University of Regina, and a Librarian with the Saskatchewan Indian Federated College, Regina campus.

Winona STEVENSON, Ph.D.

(Cree/Saulteaux/Assiniboine/Irish) is a member of the Fisher River First Nation and an Associate Professor of Indian Studies at the Saskatchewan Indian Federated College, Saskatoon campus. She just completed her dissertation, Decolonizing Tribal Histories, and received her PhD in Ethnic/Native Studies at the University of California, Berkeley campus.

Nicole ST. ONGE, Ph.D.

Is an Associate Professor of history at the University of Ottawa. She has been interested in Metis Oral History for several years and is currently working on a four year project dealing with Iroquois and French Canadian voyageurs in the Northwest from 1795 to 1830.